DEMOCRATS ATTACK IMPROVEMENTS, TALK FISH AND FINANCE TO VOTERS

McCandless Declares if He is Elected He Will Stay "On the Job"

From fish to finance ranged the topics to which Democratic orators and near-spellbinders devoted themselves last night at a meeting held in the densely-populated twelfth precinct of the fourth district, a crowd of about 200 men, women and children gathering at the terminus of the Rapid Transit car line on Luso street. A drizzling rain fell during the greater part of the rally.

In rapid fire order C. L. Almeida, chairman of the precinct club, introduced the candidates for various offices.

"Link" McCandless was hailed as a star performer, his appearance on the platform being greeted by the tinkling melody from a stringed orchestra followed by cheers. The candidate for the delegateship pictured a modern Utopia for Hawaii under a Democratic administration and representation at Washington. As a preface to his remarks McCandless attempted to take a fall out of D. L. Conkling's ambition to become city and county treasurer, insisting that the Republican candidate had always favored the moneyed interests as against the people.

Bigger Harbor and Statehood.

The crowd was told by Link that if he was sent to represent the territory at Washington he would work for a larger harbor to accommodate the shipping of the Pacific. He advocated the building of Kailua channel. Statehood was another beneficial thing for the territory and McCandless promised to give this matter his loyal and untiring support. He took occasion to score the present delegate to Congress upon the ground of not being "on the job." It elected to go to Washington Link insisted that he would stay there until the last echo of congressional oratory had died in legislative halls. He believed that the constant presence of a representative was needed to combat the efforts of mainland legislators to put over a leprosy bill which would result in Hawaii becoming the dumping ground for all such unfortunates. The voter was advised to study both platforms.

"There are 30 men seeking one job at the present time in Honolulu," he declared. "If you want conditions changed, vote for me."

"Fish for the rich only" was the burden of the talk made by Archie Robertson, candidate for representative from the fourth district. His remarks appeared to meet with the approval of the crowd for it was some minutes before he was permitted to continue. The scoring tendencies of the press of excellent matter was a matter that concerned the pocketbook of the poor, who, according to the speaker, are deprived of a staple dish because of a bill passed by a Republican majority in the last legislature. Robertson would declare war upon the bloated placatorial burros who control the fish-ponds by means of the ballot and the enactment of legislation.

Hopkins Tells of Past Life. Manley G. K. Hopkins told of his past life to show the voters that he was qualified to serve the public in the capacity of county treasurer. Hopkins stated that he had assisted ex-Treasurer Richard Trent for several years. He claimed to know all the ropes and promised an efficient administration if the Democratic voters aid their duty by him at the polls.

Robt Points to Results. Sheriff Charles Rose confined his declarations before voters to few words, preferring to point to results alleged to have been accomplished while he has held office. He took a dig at his rival in the race, attempting to show that High Sheriff Henry, while in office, failed to prove a friend to the Hawaiian because, as Rose stated, the official had elevated practically all other nationalities among the prisoners to "trusties" save the Hawaiian. The "pigeon" incident was merely touched upon in passing, the birds long since having passed into a toothsome pot-pie. Fern Won Applause From the Ladies. Mayor Fern, in eloquent Hawaiian, made a decided hit with the ladies, who made up more than 50 per cent of the crowd. His Honor took occasion to invite comparison as to many beauty.

"You see me, you see John Lane. If you would keep good looks in the mayor's office, see that your men folks get right out and vote for me."

Fern added that while he had been hampered in conducting his office by a curtailment of his powers by a Republican legislature, the mayor would yet come into his own with appointive powers.

Slammed the Rapid Transit. An appeal to the voters to send men to the legislature who would guard the people's interests was the gist of the talk made by Edward K. Hanaui, candidate for the senate. He argued at length against the extension of the Rapid Transit franchise, which he said was the property of the people and should not be given away. In his opinion the street car company should be made to contribute far more to the territorial coffers.

Raises the Ax Against Frontage Tax.

"I'm the man that put the ax in frontage tax," declared Manuel C. Pacheco, waving aloft a modest-looking hatchet as he attempted to convince the auditors that the frontage-tax plan is all wrong and that it will work a distinct hardship to the poor man with a 50-foot property frontage, while the sugar baron in the country district resolves free roads over which the wealthy tourist may roll. Pacheco took occasion to remind his hearers that he is not tied down by any strings and not allied with corporations. During his two years as supervisor he ever had the interests of the public at heart, he said. He referred at length to the work done by the present board.

McClellan Deals in Finance. Armed with pages of figures, Supervisor McClellan, candidate for reelection, attempted to show that there was plenty of money in the city and county treasury to meet all bills and obligations. According to McClellan, the city coffers will be enriched to the tune of $200,000 by the middle of November. He stated that the old board would retire, leaving $60,000 as a nest egg for the new body. There has been no dearth of the needful coin if the McClellan figures are a criterion. He had a ready explanation for the holding back of payment of some bills.

Other speakers included Horace Crabbe, W. A. Bryan, Lester Petrie, H. P. Wolter, Sonny Gay, Jessie Makinai, who also talked at a meeting at Kailua-waena school and later at Moanalua.

CORNS QUIT, PAINS STOP, WITH "GETS-IT"

Quit Plasters, Salves and What-Not. After using "GETS-IT" once you will never again have occasion for asking, "What can I do to get rid of my corn?" "GETS-IT" is the first sure, certain corn-curer ever known.

CHRISTMAS SHIP AND WAR RELIEF FUNDS ARE SHOWING GOOD GROWTH

Not only on Oahu but all the other islands people of every nationality are generously responding to the call which has been sent forth for funds with which Hawaii will do its share toward stocking with clothes and other articles the American ship which is to play Santa Claus this year to thousands of children in war-ridden Europe.

A meeting of the local committee, which is headed by Mrs. W. L. Emory, has been called for this evening, at which time more fund campaign plans are to be made. The committee momentarily is expecting advices from the mainland containing instructions as to where the money is to be sent. As it is nearing Christmas the committee feels that the funds must be despatched to the mainland at an early date. This does not mean, however, that the campaign will stop at that time, as the committee already has announced that the collection of funds will be continued until after Christmas.

That the other islands are responding generously to the call for funds is shown by the fact that Kauai alone has forwarded $300. Other sums are coming in from Maui and Hawaii.

The war relief committee reports that already $10,000 has been collected for the aid of the widows and orphans in Europe. This money has been raised principally on Oahu. An active campaign has been started on Maui by Mrs. Frank Baldwin and individual subscriptions are coming in from Hawaii and Kauai. The committee urges that subscriptions toward the fund be made as soon as possible, from the fact that the quicker they come in locally the quicker they are received by the sufferers in Europe.

Keep Your Lungs Strong

This advice is doubly important with the knowledge that every three minutes some one in the United States succumbs to consumption and many refuse to realize they are afflicted until it is too late. It is after colds or sickness, from overwork, confining duties or when general weakness exists that tubercular germs thrive because the resistive powers of the body are weakened.

Only with fresh air, sunshine and abundant rich blood can one hope to arrest their progress, and the concentrated fats in Scott's Emulsion furnish fuel for rich blood, and its rare nourishment helps strengthen the lungs while it builds up the forces.

If you work indoors, tire easily, feel languid or run-down Scott's Emulsion is the most strengthening food-medicine known and is free from alcohol or stupefying drugs. Avoid substitutes. 14-63 Scott & Bower, Bloomfield, N. J.
